(2) Council may designate an assessment appraiser to carry out valuations as set out in this Law.

(3) A person who carries out valuations under this Law must be qualified to conduct assessment appraisals of real property in the Province.

Application of Law

4. This Law applies to all interests in reserve lands.

PART IV
ASSESSED VALUE

Interests Assessable

5.(1) All interests in reserve lands that are subject to taxation under the Taxation Law and all interests for which payments-in-lieu may be accepted by Council must be assessed in accordance with this Law.

(2) A valuation must be prepared for each assessable property in accordance with this Law.

(3) The assessor must prepare an assessment for each assessable property using the valuation prepared for that assessable property.

(4) An assessment must be prepared for an improvement whether or not it is complete or capable of being used for its intended purpose.

Assessment and Valuation

6.(1) Each interest in reserve land must be assessed as of the applicable base date.

(2) Each interest in reserve lands must be assessed using only mass appraisal.

(3) Regulated property assessments must be determined according to the regulated property assessment valuation standard.

(4) Non-regulated property assessments must be determined according to the market valuation standard.

(5) Notwithstanding subsections (3) and (4), the rules for preparing assessments apply to the assessment of all interests in reserve land unless stated to apply only to regulated property assessments or only to non-regulated property assessments.

(6) Land and improvements may be assessed separately in circumstances where separate values are required.

(7) The dominant and controlling factor in the assessment of interests in reserve lands is equity.

(8) Equity in regulated property assessments is achieved by applying the regulated property assessment valuation standard uniformly and fairly.

(9) Equity in non-regulated property assessments is achieved by applying the market valuation standard so that the assessments bear a fair and just proportion to the market value of similar interests in reserve lands as of the applicable base date.

(10) The assessed value must reflect all the facts, conditions and circumstances affecting the interest in reserve lands as of January 1 of each year as if they had existed on the applicable base date.

(11) The assessed value of land through which a pipeline runs is not to be reduced if the pipeline is buried in the land and the surface rights are not held by the owner of the pipeline.

(12) Notwithstanding the disposal of lots or plots in a cemetery, the holder of an interest in reserve lands used as a cemetery must be assessed with respect to all the lands included in the cemetery.

(13) After the assessed value of an interest in reserve lands is determined, the assessor must determine the taxable assessment of the interest by multiplying the assessed value by the percentage of value applicable to the property class established under paragraph 7(1)(a) to which the interest belongs.

(14) Except as otherwise provided in this Law, for the purposes of assessing interests in reserve lands

(a) the valuation methods, rates, rules and formulas established under provincial assessment legislation, the assessment manual, and any guidelines established by the agency to determine the assessed value of an interest in reserve lands, existing at the time of assessment, and

Property Classes

7.(1) For the purposes of assessment under this Law and imposing taxes under the Taxation Law, Council hereby establishes

(a) the property classes established by the Province for provincial property assessment purposes under the Municipalities Act, SS 2005, c M-36.1; and

(2) The property classes established under subsection (1) are set out in Schedule I to this Law, and the assessor must use the applicable provincial classification rules for each property class to classify each interest in reserve lands.

(3) The assessor must, as of January 1 in each year, classify each interest in reserve lands according to a property class established under paragraph (1)(a) and according to a property class established under paragraph (1)(b).

(4) If there is a change to the use of an interest in reserve lands, the assessor must classify the interest as of the date that the change is made to the assessment roll in accordance with this Law.

(5) If one use of any interest in reserve lands is clearly distinct from the interest's predominant use and is not integrated with or directly related to the interest's predominant use, the assessor may

(a) determine that portions of the interest that include more than one use, or portions of the interest's assessment, belong to different property classes; and

(b) apportion the assessed value of the interest among those property classes.

(6) If the assessor determines that portions of any interest in reserve lands, or portions of the interest's assessment, belong to different property classes, the interest may be entered more than once in the assessment roll for the purpose of indicating the assessed value of each portion within a property class.

(3) The Assessment Review Board may conduct a hearing whether the complainant is present or not, provided the complainant was given notice of the hearing in accordance with this Law.

(4) The burden of proof in an appeal is on the person bringing the appeal.

(5) In an oral hearing, a party may call and examine witnesses, present evidence and submissions and conduct cross-examination of witnesses as reasonably required by the Assessment Review Board for a full and fair disclosure of all matters relevant to the issues in the appeal.

(6) The Assessment Review Board may reasonably limit further examination or cross-examination of a witness if it is satisfied that the examination or cross-examination has been sufficient to disclose fully and fairly all matters relevant to the issues in the appeal.
